Konkani Verb Conjugations: The Heart of the Language

Verb conjugations form the backbone of any sentence. In Konkani, verbs change based on tense (past, present, future), person (I, you, he/she/it, we, they), and number (singular, plural). Class II students should start with the present tense conjugations of common verbs like "aslo" (to be), "kelo" (to do), and "geleo" (to come).

- Example: The verb "aslo" (to be) conjugates as follows:
 - I am: Han asan
 - You are: Tum asat
 - He/She is: To asā
 - We are: Am asat
 - They are: Tea asat

Regular practice with these conjugations, using engaging activities like sentence completion exercises, will greatly improve comprehension.
